

transparent lan service

Transparent LAN Service – (TLS) is a service that connects multiple sites via high-speed private line with speeds up to 1 Gigabit. LANs are extended over a dedicated loop into their local Uniserve PS data centre, where Central Office based switches provide connectivity to circuits from the other locations, or access to a shared backbone from transport to other local data centres if needed.

Why TLS?

The primary reason for TLS implementation is the dramatic reduction in costs associated with connecting multiple sites. Along with this cost reduction TLS offers data communication at native Ethernet speeds between sites with a higher degree of data integrity and security.
